Music for the Harp

2015 - 2016

Alaw, Pontypridd

Who We Are

Alaw (pronounced like "allow", with the accent on the first syllable) means "tune" in the Welsh language. Established in 1990 we are a family-run company managed by experienced professional musicians, Meinir Heulyn and Brian Raby (see 'Our Contributors', page 33). We specialize in producing a variety of music for harp and, as a publisher, we have one of the largest databases in the world dedicated to high quality harp music.

We offer original compositions and arrangements from many of the world's leading musicians: all of our contributors are active professionals or teachers with a wide breadth of experience.

Our publications are intended for use in performance or practice by musicians at all levels and consist of a variety of styles – from traditional or folk to 'classical' or jazz.

An Introduction to our Harp Music

The harp is the ultimate solo instrument – visually stunning with a breathtaking sound, capable of capturing any mood and musical style. Alaw's collection of harp solos draws on jazz, traditional and classical music as well as original works.

Each publication is designed both to showcase the harp and each harpist's ability. If you are planning a recital, looking for solid pieces to augment your repertoire or simply want new and delightful background music, you are sure to find much to interest you here.

'Famous Music for the Harp' (page 5)

This best-selling series of well-known music sprung from a harpist's frustration at the lack of accessible arrangements of frequently requested favourites. With a large selection of opera arias, traditional music, seasonal tunes and classical music's most enduring melodies, the Famous Music for the Harp collection offers intermediate-level players the chance to extend their repertoire with music that is instantly recognizable, while advanced and professional harpists have a portfolio of background music that is sure to be well-received at any occasion.

Easy to read with clear pedalling and logical fingering suggestions and a pleasure to both listen to and play, Famous Music for the Harp is an invaluable addition to any harpist's repertoire.

Traditional music is a broad term that covers some of the most toe-tapping dances and riotously joyful songs as well as the most soothing lullabies, heart-breaking laments and haunting melodies. Many great composers have recognized the pivotal role of traditional music and have been inspired by many of these melodies to produce some of the world's greatest music.

Alaw is proud of its comprehensive collection of traditional music from all over the British Isles and elsewhere: we have assembled well-loved and familiar pieces as well as fresh new arrangements that have delighted audiences everywhere.

Music for Beginners (page 16)

Music for beginners has to tread a very fine line: it has to be simple, achievable and encouraging, providing a firm grounding in playing the harp; at the same time, beginners' pieces must be naturally musically satisfying.

Easy to read and follow, with suggested fingering and preparatory exercises, Alaw's range for beginners offers a selection of familiar and less-familiar traditional tunes that are an excellent start for beginners of all ages.

Ensembles (page 19)

Ensemble work is a true test of musicianship for any player, so it is vital to have good musical arrangements. From show-stopping classical favourites to traditional pieces, we have imaginative arrangements for two, three, four and eight harps.

However, the beginner is not forgotten, and our ensemble catalogue includes pieces written specifically for harpists in the early stages, with easy-to-learn yet satisfying works. Alaw's collection of ensemble pieces provides music that will challenge preconceptions of the harp as a purely solo instrument.

Harp and Other Instruments (page 25)

The classic pairing of flute and harp needs no introduction. But what about harp and double bass? harp and tuba? or harp and trombone? Alaw's catalogue offers original pieces for daringly unconventional pairings that inject a spirit of fun into the business of music-making.

Our series Wedding Music for Flute and Harp, for example, offers tried, tested and beautiful arrangements of some of the most frequently requested pieces; and if you haven't yet found your flautist, we have a volume and accompanying CD of traditional flute and harp tunes that gives you the chance to try your accompanying skills in the privacy of your own practice space! (See Sain y Werin).

Seasonal (page 29)

Whether you are a professional harpist, an enthusiastic beginner or intermediate improver, seasonal music may be a cornerstone of your repertoire - Christmas music has a unique place in people's hearts: the challenge is finding arrangements that truly suit the harp.

We have taken traditional carols, popular Christmas songs and some lesser-known but beautiful festive pieces and put them into our seasonal collection. Arranged (and played frequently!) by some of the UK's leading harpists, these arrangements are sure to become part of your Christmas tradition.

Voice and Harp (page 31)

In Wales, The Land of Song, voice and harp has been a traditional and important medium going back to before the tenth century. A relatively new venture for Alaw, we will be extending regularly this part of the catalogue.

Valerie Aldrich-Smith was born in Powys, Wales. She received a B.Mus. from Birmingham University and completed her harp studies with Ann Griffiths at the Welsh College of Music and Drama gaining the Advanced Diploma for performance. Currently, she is principal harpist with the BBC National Orchestra of Wales, a post she has held for twenty years, as well as a regular tutor for the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama and the University of Wales, Cardiff.

Elinor Bennett is a highly acclaimed international concert harpist, rooted in the traditional music, language and culture of Wales. She has always sung and played the national music of Wales – from the early and traditional songs and harp repertoire, to the new music of living composers – in her concerts, recordings and music festivals - Elinor became prominent from an early age by winning many prizes in the National Eisteddfodau. Her first degree was in Law at the University College of Wales, Aberystwyth, though her career changed course on winning a scholarship from the Countess of Munster Musical Trust to study at the Royal Academy of Music, London.

Elinor played with all the major British orchestras and worked with some of the world's finest conductors and composers, including Benjamin Britten. She regularly appears on radio and TV, and has made many recordings, ranging from a definitive selection of 20th Century harp classics to collections of traditional music and Welsh folk songs on the Triple Harp. She was awarded a Churchill Scholarship to travel to Australia to study Music Therapy and on her return was instrumental in promoting its use for people and children with intellectual disabilities.

Many leading composers have written works for Elinor and amongst her ex-pupils are distinguished harpists including Catrin Finch and Sioned Williams. She directed harp studies at Bangor University, has been Visiting Professor of Harp at the Royal Academy of Music and the Guildhall School of Music, London, and has been awarded many Honorary Fellowships in the UK as well as an Honorary Doctorate in Music by the University of Wales. She is the Director of the Wales International Harp Festival in Caernarfon, and has been Special Guest at Harp Festivals and competitions in many countries, as well as Artistic Director of the Harp Festival in Bangkok in 2008 and 2012. She now wishes to dedicate more time to performing Welsh traditional music, sharing the love of this rich inheritance with people from other cultures.

Tony Bremner was born in Sydney in 1939, he studied piano at the NSW Conservatorium and moved to London in 1961. In 1968 he joined the Glyndebourne chorus as a tenor and remained there for ten years, until he changed to counter-tenor, when his first audition, at Covent Garden, landed him the job of understudy to James Bowman. In 2000 he won the Gregynog Composer of the Year prize with his Three Divine Poems of John Donne for chorus and piano. He has also conducted new recordings of classic film scores, including Lawrence of Arabia and The Big Country with the Philharmonia Orchestra, and Citizen Kane and The Magnificent Ambersons with the Australian Philharmonic. His three film scores and In the Shrubbery have been released.

The Italian composer Leonello Capodaglio (b. Lendinara, 1945) studied in Venice with Gian Francesco Malipiero and Ugo Amendola (composition), Gino Gorini (piano), Egida Giordani Sartori (harp) and Franco Ferrara (conducting). His catalogue currently contains 235 works including three oratorios and two operas and there have been over two hundred performances, some of which were devoted entirely to his works. He has won ten national and international prizes for composition, including the "Atoll" prize for choral composition from the Haute Académie Internationale de Lutèce (Paris), the "Valentino Bucchi" prize for piano composition (Roma) and the international competition "7ème Centenaire de la translation de la Sainte Maison" for masses for a capella choir (Lorette). Several of his works have been on the list of obligatory pieces for national and international violin and piano competitions. Leonello Capodaglio has taught piano, composition and theory, was the director of the state conservatory of Adria and has been principal conductor of several Italian chamber and symphony orchestras. A man of letters, essayist and lecturer, he has also written works of prose and poetry. He received the "G. Spagnol national prize" for a historical novel.

Born in Bagillt in North Wales, Glenda Clwyd began playing the harp at the age of ten and achieved many successes at the Urdd and National Eisteddfodau during her teens. In her early professional years she played in orchestral concerts and played in a pop band, composing a number of their songs. She went on to study harp and performance at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama with Ann Griffiths and during this time received the prestigious Pernod award in recognition of her work as an ambassador of the harp.

Throughout her career as a professional harpist she has performed for royalty, appeared on TV and radio, played at most major UK concert venues alongside choirs and soloists and performed in touring shows and in symphony orchestras.

Branka Crowder was born in Montenegro and grew up in Belgrade, Serbia, where she began studying the harp from an early age. During and after her studies she was already working professionally as the principal harpist of the National Opera and Ballet Orchestra of Novi Sad and Belgrade. Branka has given numerous solo performances, as well as live and recorded appearances for Serbian Radio and Television. A graduate of the Academy of Music in Belgrade where she studied with Ljiljana Nestorovska and Milica Baric, Branka continued her studies with Caryl Thomas at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama, graduating with distinction. Branka's own arrangements of traditional Balkan music won her the 3rd prize at the International Folk Harp Competition in Caernarfon, Wales, which led to performances at the Serbian Harp Festival in Belgrade and the European Harp Symposium in Cardiff. Due to popular demand Branka is currently arranging and promoting these enchanting and captivating melodies for the harp.

Born in Cardiff, Einion Dafydd studied music at Bangor University and Mills College (California) before becoming established as a freelance musician in north Wales. He is currently the Senior Music Officer for the Arts Council of Wales. As co-director of the William Mathias Schools Service Youth Jazz Band, one sees his penchant for jazz which pervades much of his music. This is evident in works such as the big band suite Heil Ferchetau and the cerdd dant setting Y Clwb Jazz. He is also influenced and inspired by Welsh folk songs. Many of his harmonic traits surface in the many arrangements for choir, traits which suggest a liking for the music of Weil and Milhaud.

Haldon Evans is a former lecturer in music at Swansea College, and a former head of faculty at QE High School, Carmarthen. He is now a busy freelance composer, arranger and trumpeter in the South Wales area. A graduate of Cardiff University, he studied postgraduate composition with Alun Hoddinot, gaining an M.Mus. Detailed research into the compositional techniques of Béla Bartók prompted him to explore the possibilities inherent in Welsh folk music. This influence remains central to his output as both composer and arranger.

Catrin Finch is a phenomenal musician who has done much to put the harp on the musical map. Her rise to prominence started almost as soon as she plucked her first strings: after being inspired at the age of five she has been delighting audiences worldwide. Her first major international prize came in 1999 when she won the Lily Laskine International Harp Competition in France – one of the premier harp competitions in the world. Following that, she was a winner of the Young Concert Artists International Auditions in New York, and as a result has now played in over thirty states in the USA, including recitals and concerto debuts in New York, Boston, and Washington D.C. In May 2004 she was nominated for a Classical Brit Award and performed on the ITV ceremony with Bryn Terfel. She also won an Echo Klassik award in Germany. Catrin is the former Royal Harpist to the H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and had the honour of reviving this ancient tradition last held in 1873, holding the appointment from 2000-2004. During those years she gave many performances at the Royal Palaces and to Royalty from around the world.

Gareth Glyn was born in Machynlleth in 1951, and is a music graduate of Merton College, Oxford. He began composing while still at school in Mold, Flintshire, and his works were first broadcast by the BBC while he was still at University. His compositions have been commissioned and played by eminent orchestras, including the LSO, the BBC Concert Orchestra, the North Carolina Symphony, the Strasbourg Philharmonic, the Ulster Orchestra, the BBC National Orchestra of Wales, I Musici de Montréal and the Royal Ballet Sinfonia. Gareth's output includes orchestral, chamber, solo instrumental and vocal works, musicals, songs and song-cycles for professionals, amateurs and children, music for brass band and large-scale works for orchestra, narrators, actors and audience-participation. His work is widely published (Spartan, Gwynn, Curiad, Adlais, Chanterelle, Alaw) and recorded (principally on ASV/Universal, Sain, Laserlight). Gareth Glyn received an Honorary Fellowship from Bangor University, and the rank of Honorary Druid in the National Eisteddfod's Gorsedd of Bards, for his services to music in Wales, a country whose history, song tradition, language and landscape inform his work. Gareth lives in Bodffordd, Anglesey, with his wife Eleri Cwyfan; he has two grown-up sons, Peredur and Seiriol.

Gillian Green comes from North Wales and was one of the first music students to enter Chetham's School of Music, Manchester. After graduating from University College, Cardiff, with a B.Mus degree, an LTCL performer's diploma and a Post Graduate Certificate in Education, she was appointed as a harp tutor for the Mid Glamorgan Education Authority in South Wales. Gillian established a flourishing harp department at Ysgol Gyfun Llanhari, where she taught the harp for 23 years. During this time she tutored many young musicians, some of whom have become professional harpists. Many generations of harp students participated in the 'Glissandi Harp Ensemble' which she formed and for whom she arranged and commissioned several new pieces. 'Glissandi' performed these works in a variety of venues including the National Museum of Wales, St. David's Hall, Cardiff, The Royal Festival Hall, Queen Elizabeth Hall and in Dresden. The group also gained top prizes at Wales' national festivals. Gillian is co-director of Telynu Morgannwg (The Glamorgan Harp Guild) and the administrator of Coleg Telyn Cymru (The Welsh Harp College). In 1988 she was awarded a Welsh Arts Council grant to study for an M.A. degree in Arts Administration at the City University, London. In 1990, she was appointed as the director of Yehudi Menuhin's Live Music Now! scheme in Wales for which she has organised over two thousand performances.

David Hellewell was originally a jazz musician but didn't take up serious composition until his late twenties. As a composer he is self-taught and first made his name internationally as a composer, conductor and performer of avant-garde music in the 1970's & 80's. In 1969 he formed, as conductor and musical director, Apollo Contemporary Music, an ensemble of virtuoso players dedicated to the performance of new music. The ensemble gave many premiers and commissioned new works, with concerts at leading London venues and in the provinces, as well as BBC broadcasts on Radio 3's "Music in our Time".

Meinir Heulyn is one of Wales' most proficient and versatile harpists and is at the forefront of the Welsh harp scene. Having graduated from University College, Cardiff, she continued her harp studies at the Conservatorio di Musica, Genova. She enjoyed thirty years as Principal Harpist for the Orchestra of Welsh National Opera where she performed internationally and recorded extensively with world renowned artists.

Meinir is a highly respected and dedicated teacher and until 2011 she was Head of Harp Studies at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama. She is also co-founder of both Coleg Telyn Cymru and Telynu Morgannwg, two bodies which organize regular harp courses.

Since 2002 she has been able to develop her solo career in international festivals. Her performances display superb musicianship and her passion for traditional music. She is a prolific arranger which inspired her and her husband to establish Alaw Music Publishing: www.alawmusic.com. She has published over thirty volumes of harp music, seventeen of these being volumes of Welsh traditional music. They are proving to be an invaluable addition to any harpist's library, taking Welsh culture all over the world. Meinir is a director of Alaw. www.meinirheulyn.com

Jeffrey Howard was born in Cardiff and studied at the University of Wales College, Cardiff, and the Royal Academy of Music, London, specializing in organ performance and Church Music. Since leaving college, Jeffrey has pursued a free-lance career as organist, pianist, singer, coach and conductor. He has accompanied singers from several of the world's leading opera houses, including Bryn Terfel, Sir Willard White, Jason Howard and Rebecca Evans and as a choral accompanist has worked with many mixed and male choirs, including the BBC Welsh Chorus, the Swansea Bach Choir and as arranger and tutor for the National Youth Choir of Wales. Orchestra. In 2005 he was a member of the American Institute of Musical Studies Festival Orchestra in Graz, Austria. Founder of the harp-trombone duet "hArT", he has performed in prestigious venues in US and Europe.

Achilles Liarmakopoulos is a strong supporter of new music and new works for trombone and has premiered many pieces from new composers who have written specifically for him. As soloist he is dedicated to an expanding, attractive repertoire of new pieces and important works revived from archive as well as standard repertoire.

Alison Martin began playing the harp at Malvern Girls' College, and later studied both piano accompaniment and harp. She has been principal harp with the orchestra of English National Opera since 1984, and guest principal at Sydney Opera House as well as most London orchestras. She began arranging while she was a student playing background music (to entertain herself as much as anyone else) with repertoire ranging from Stevie Wonder to Mozart.

Coline-Marie Orliac, from France, is a prize winner in several international harp competitions including the bronze medal and the Mario Falcao prize in the 7th USA International Harp Competition (2007), the International Harp Competition of the Cité des Arts of Paris, the Vera Dulova Harp Competition (Moscow), and the 2005 UFAM International Harp Competition (France).

As a member of the Dolce Suono Chamber Society she performs with musicians of the Philadelphia Orchestra and with trombonist Achilles Liarmakopoulos she formed the duo "hArT", which regularly performs throughout Europe and USA.

In 2006 Ms. Orliac was invited by Claudio Abbado to tour Europe with the Gustav Mahler Jugend Orchester. She has also performed with the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra of Nice, and at the Spivakov Festival in Moscow. In July 2009 she will be a harpist of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of Simon Rattle, at the Festival d'Aix-en-Provence, France.

Ms. Orliac entered The Curtis Institute of Music in 2006 where she studies with Judy Loman and Elizabeth Hainen. In addition to harp, she also studies composition with David Ludwig. Prior to entering Curtis, Ms. Orliac studied at the Nice Conservatoire, receiving two diplomas of musical studies and first prizes in harp and piano. She has also studied with Judith Liber, former principal harp of the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra; Isabelle Moretti from the Paris Conservatoire; Marie-Pierre Langlamet, principal harp of the Berlin Philharmonic; and Elisabeth Fontan-Binoche.

After her first recital at the age of seventeen, Isabelle Perrin studied for three years at the Juilliard School of New York before joining the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Since 1990, she has been co-principal harpist with the Orchestre National de France. An international soloist, Isabelle Perrin has given many concerts and master-classes throughout Europe, Russia, USA, South America, Canada, China, Japan, Korea, Australia, and Africa. She has recorded a number of CDs, including one highlighting the works of Bernard Andrès and original works by Arnold Bax for flute, viola and harp. She has performed a world premiere recording on a single action harp of F.A. Boieldieu's works, including the Sonata and the famous Concerto in C Major as well as one of Pierick Houdy's pieces for harp and miscellaneous instruments, among them the "Concerto Français" which he dedicated to her. She has recently recorded a Super Audio CD of favourite repertoire pieces, a recital of the most famous French impressionist works for harp and quite recently a second Bernard Andrès CD with Mexican harpist Baltazar Juarez. Isabelle Perrin teaches at the Ecole Normale de Musique de Paris and has been appointed Visiting Professor to The Royal Academy of Music in London. As president and artistic director, Isabelle Perrin organized the 6th European Harp Symposium, which took place in Lyon, France and is vice president of the World Harp Congress. Isabelle Perrin has also been knighted in the Ordre des Arts et des Lettres by the French government in recognition of her involvement in the international musical world. www.isabelle-perrin.eu

Michael Pollock won a Demysip to read music at Magdalen College, Oxford, and then gained a postgraduate degree in composition under Anthony Milner at the Royal College of Music while studying piano accompaniment with Roger Vignoles. The many singers whom he has accompanied include Dame Kiri Te Kanawa (on tour to the Far East as well as in France, Belgium, Norway, and at the 50th Israel Festival in Jerusalem) and Bryn Terfel (in the UK, Norway, Asia and Australia, as well as in a recital at the Amsterdam Concertgebouw); he has also appeared with Dame Anne Evans, Gwyn Hughes Jones, Katarina Karnéus, Christopher Maltman, Dennis O'Neill, Adrian Thompson and Sir Willard White. On three occasions he acted as official accompanist for the BBC Cardiff Singer of the World competition.

Michael's CDs with singers include songs by Stanford and Vaughan Williams (with Anthony Michaels-Moore) and recital discs of Italian songs (with Rebecca Evans, and Nuccia Focile). He also enjoys collaborating with instrumentalists and he has recorded both of Brahms's clarinet sonatas, together with the sonata by Nino Rota (with Leslie Craven). He is also much in demand as a coach and teacher at various conservatoires and opera companies, but still finds time to make numerous arrangements.

A director of Alaw, Brian Raby studied with Denis Wick and was principal trombone with the Orchestra of Welsh National Opera for over twenty-three years. From 1994 until 2006 he was a member of the London Philharmonic Orchestra, performing on countless recordings and films, including The Lord of the Rings trilogy. He left the LPO in 2006 to concentrate on freelancing, publishing and cycling. As a freelancer he has worked extensively with the London Symphony Orchestra, The Philharmonia Orchestra, The BBC Symphony Orchestra, The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, The Chamber Orchestra of Europe, The Orchestra of Gran Canaria, English National Opera, ENO North as well as with the Orchestra of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden and Longborough Opera, playing the bass trumpet in numerous cycles of Wagner's Ring.

Allie Robertson is one of Scotland's leading harpists. A five-time National Mod Gold Medalist and a BBC Radio Scotland Young Traditional Musician of the Year 2008 finalist, Allie also won first prize at the inaugural London Harp Competition, was judged best overall musician at the Edinburgh Competition Festival and won the St Albans New Roots award. She has represented Commun na Clarsach for Scotland at the Pan Celtic Festival in Ireland and played at two World Harp Congresses. With a scholarship from the English Speaking Union in recognition of her 'virtuosic harp playing', she gained a 1st-class MA in Irish Music Performance course from the Irish World Academy of Music and Dance. An experienced teacher, she is committed to promoting Scottish music and culture across the world.

Caryl Roese studied at the Royal Academy of Music, London and at the University of Wales, Cardiff, where she gained a M.Ed. Degree. With much world-wide travel and teaching experience, Mrs. Roese was the head of music at University of Wales Institute, Cardiff (UWIC), UK, where she specialised in training students to become music teachers in both Primary and Secondary schools. Caryl's main concern has always been to broaden children's musical minds at an early age and to give every child the opportunity of making music with as much fun as possible. <http://www.artinwales.250x.com/carylroese.htm>

Gwen Màiri Sinclair grew up in St. Andrews and moved to Glasgow in 1999 to study at the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama with Karen Vaughan (co-principal harp, LSO) and during her time there also had clàrsach lessons with Karen Marshalsay.

Since graduating with a BA(hons) and PGDipMus, Gwen has been enjoying a busy and varied freelance career playing with professional orchestras and performing as part of the Elysium Flute and Harp Duo and Style 85 Harp Duo. She has many clàrsach pupils at Sgoil Ghàidhlig Ghlaschu (Glasgow Gaelic School) and is the pedal harp instructor for the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland's junior department (formerly RSAMD).

Gwen now has two small boys and it was during her first maternity leave, having had some time to stop and think about her career, that she realised how much she would like to spend more time with the clàrsach and return to her folk roots. As a "Welsh-speaking Scot" she draws on style and music from both countries in her compositions and arrangements.

Jane Stewart studied music at Birmingham University, England, and since graduating has taught and composed extensively. Her experience teaching pupils of all ages has made her very aware of the problems they face when first learning an instrument. Jane has worked with small instrumental groups where she has encountered first hand the challenge of ensemble playing - quite a different matter from playing the parts on their own! As an accompanist Jane understands the problems involved in playing all orchestral and band instruments and has witnessed her own son learning to play the trumpet!! while she was aware of the early technical difficulties, she soon discovered a disappointing shortage of fun ensemble music for the beginner. Her compositions and arrangements are written to encourage learners to play and listen at the same time.

Robert Swain was born in Cardiff in 1947. He studied composition with Alun Hoddinott and analysis of 20th century music with Arnold Whittall at University College of Wales, Cardiff. He has held a number of teaching and lecturing posts during his career and was appointed HM Inspector for Education and Training (Wales) in 1989. Although most of his professional life has been involved with music in education, he has always been active as an experienced and talented composer, arranger and performer. Commissions received over the last three decades include a BBC European Music Year Commission, performed at the BBC Wales St.David's Festival, the Swansea Festival, the Vale of Glamorgan Festival as well as at most London Venues. Artists performing his works include the Dartington and Endellion String Quartets, The Fires of London (under Peter Maxwell Davies), the BBC Welsh Symphony Orchestra, the London 20th Century Ensemble and the Welsh Brass Consort. Almost all the world premieres were broadcast by BBC Radio 3

Katey Thomas studied at the Royal Northern College of Music and has played with many of Britain's professional orchestras. She plays regularly for the BBC Symphony Orchestra, Garsington Opera and Glyndebourne Touring Opera.

Katherine Thomas was born in Pontypridd, South Wales. She began her harp studies with Alwenna Roberts and then Meinir Heulyn, continuing with David Watkins at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama, London. Winner of several awards and scholarships, including the Blue Riband in the National Eisteddfod of Wales and the Nansi Richards Memorial Scholarship, Katherine pursues a busy freelance career and frequently performs with the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra and Welsh National Opera.

Kari Vehmanen was born in 1967 in Helsinki, Finland: he is a bassoonist, music copyist, arranger and amateur harpist. He first played piano and recorder and began to study bassoon at the age of fifteen in the Helsinki Conservatory, later studying at the Sibelius Academy. As a freelance musician, he has played with all the major Finnish symphony orchestras, including the Helsinki Philharmonic and Finnish National Opera in particular. Vehmanen has arranged many styles of music, from 'classical' to modern rock, his largest undertaking to date being Berg's "Lulu Suite" for concert band; his Piazzolla arrangement – "Histoire du Tango" for flute and harp was published 2005. He began to play harp as a pedagogical student at the Sibelius Academy in 1998 under the tutelage of Laura Hynninen, the principal harp of Finnish National Opera. He also collects books on music copying, orchestration and instrumentation, and enjoys reading Shakespeare.

Arne Werkman was born in 1960 in The Hague, Netherlands, and grew up in Geneva, Switzerland. He had his musical training at the 'Conservatoire de Musique de Genève' and read musicology at the 'Université de Genève' where he graduated on 'Music in commercial Advertising'. He further developed composition with the late Tristan Keuris at the Utrecht Conservatory in the Netherlands. His music has been written for and performed by many outstanding musicians in the Netherlands as well as the USA, Russia, Italy, France, England, Switzerland and Germany. He took the initiative in 1992 to write three 'Intermezzi' which were performed during the opening ceremony of parliament by H.M. Queen Beatrix of The Netherlands. Arne Werkman's compositions are frequently broadcast on Dutch radio and many of his works have been recorded on CD.

Edward Witsenburg is the doyen of Dutch harpists. His career extends over more than half a century. He continues the tradition set forth by the celebrated Dutch harpist, Rosa Spier, who was famous for her expressive style of playing. After ten years of playing in various symphony orchestras, he devoted himself to teaching the harp, together with a solo career. He was a member of the teaching staff at the Royal Conservatory of Music in The Hague for forty years. He was appointed professor at the Mozarteum University in Salzburg, a position which he held for fourteen years. He is much sought after internationally as a teacher and has given numerous master-classes and courses in many countries all over the world. He has made many recordings on LP and later CD, using instruments from his extensive private collection and was one of the founder members of the Netherlands Harp Society, which he chaired for six years. Edward Witsenburg was made a Knight in the Order of Oranje-Nassau for his services to music and, in particular, to the harp.
